

What About the Poetry - The new album by Vincent Starwaver

With What About the Poetry, Vincent Starwaver presents his third studio album. This time, the seeds for the record were sown during an organic jam session.

Bart Vincent took the stereo recordings to his studio and dissected them into separate tracks for drums, bass, and guitar, subsequently building brand-new demos around them. The result is a sound that balances between raw and tender, loud and soft. For the final production, the band headed into the studio with Koen Giesen (Studio La Patrie) and Serge Hertoge (Musicfarm Studio), supplemented by recordings in Bart's own Soundofbv studio.

Where previous records focused on grief and loss, this new work resolutely drives the listener toward a bright future. The songs take you on a journey that combats decision fatigue, glorifies life on tour, celebrates friendship, and appreciates the unexpected smile of a passerby.

Following the double album (Goodnight Honeybun & Godspeed), which was presented last year to a sold-out Minard theatre in Ghent, Vincent Starwaver once again proves themselves to be a Belgian supergroup. The band's lineup remains unchanged, featuring top musicians: Bart Vincent (Thou), Alan Gevaert (dEUS, Chantal Acda), Steve Slingeneyer (Soulwax, OneManParty), Naomi Sijmons (Reena Riot), and Serge Hertoge (Sundahl, Liz Aku).

In short, Vincent Starwaver is essential listening for fans of Wilco, Eels, and dEUS.
